

Devonshire House School Fundraising, Hampstead

Since adopting the Lowe Syndrome Charity as one of their charities, Devonshire House School has raised £10,000 through fundraising events!

16th March 2006 Jono Coleman visits DevonshireHouseSchool Hampstead

Radio DJ Jono Coleman, Patron of the Lowe Syndrome Charity, visited Devonshire house school in Hampstead with Trustees Lorraine Thomas and Penny Biziou. Both Jono and Lorraine spoke briefly about the charity and its aim of raising funding to support medical research into the Lowe syndrome disease. Lorraine spoke warmly about the school and the wonderful teacher Mrs Mortimer who taught her son Oscar who was diagnosed with Lowe Syndrome just before his sixth birthday. Jono thanked the children for helping raise money for Lowe syndrome and including the Lowe Syndrome Trust in their 2006 fundraising events calendar.
